

Grammar: Word order with adverbs of place and time

Ortsangaben (adverbs of place) beantworten die Frage „Wo?“. Sie stehen normalerweise am Ende eines Satzes:

Let's go to London.                      Please meet me in the town centre.                      Is that Tom over there?
We waited outside the bank.                      Dad is working in the garden.                      Please come here.

Zeitangaben (adverbs of time) beantworten die Frage „Wann?“. Sie stehen auch am Ende eines Satzes:

I get up at 7 o'clock.                      We get up at 7.30 every morning.                      I think you should go now!
He was born in 1950.                      She arrived early.                      They were very late.

Genauere Zeitangaben stehen meistens vor ungenaueren.

Falls Orts- und Zeitangaben zusammen in einem Satz vorkommen, dann steht Ort vor Zeit:

I stayed at home yesterday.                      Were they here this morning?                      He lived in France for ten years.
He'll be here soon.                      She was in the garden yesterday.                      I was in Berlin last Thursday.

Genauere Ortsangaben stehen auch meistens vor ungenaueren.
