

Table of Contents

Table of Contents	7
Introduction	9
1. Traces of the Early Past: Childhood and Youth	13
1.1. Parental Influence: Pacifism for the First Time	15
1.2. The Early Dream: Joan Baez and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.	17
1.3. Another Mentor: Ira Sandperl	18
2. Traces of a Search for Change: The Anti-Vietnam War Movement	21
2.1. Historic Subjectivity	21
2.2. Doubtful Freedom	22
2.3. Political Artists	24
3. The Rise of a Star in the Face of a War	27
3.1. The Religious Bohemian	28
3.2. The President Should...	33
3.3. Paying for the War	35
4. The Height of a War and the Height of a Career	41
4.1. The Institute for the Study of Non-Violence	41
4.2. A Target of War Defenders	46
4.2.1. Japan: Joan Baez versus the CIA	46
4.2.2. Repudiated Daughter	47
4.3. Resisting the War: the Draft Resistance Movement	49
4.3.1. Rehabilitating a Star: Joan Baez in Prison	51
4.3.2. Marrying a Prisoner: Joan Baez and David Harris	52
4.4. Music in Difficult Times	54
4.4.1. An Example in Song: "Saigon Bride"	54
4.4.2. Woodstock	56

5.	Visiting the War: The Illusion of Defense	59
5.1.	Encircling the US Congress	60
5.2.	Christmas Presents: Hanoi, December 1972	63
6.	After the War: Still Fighting against Violence	67
6.1.	An “Open Letter”	68
6.2.	Reactions	69
7.	Joan Baez: Unconventional Artist and Activist	73
	Conclusion	77
	Poem: “the silence of the snake”	79
	Acknowledgements	81
	Bibliography	83
	Curriculum Vitae	91