Introduction	1
Part I Kantian Preliminaries	9
1 Kant on the Concepts of Analogy and Symbol	11
1.1 Analogies of Experience	13
1.1.1 A Priori and A Posteriori Analogies	19
1.2 Symbolic Analogies	22
1.2.1 Symbolic Analogies and the Ideas of Reason	24
1.2.2 Symbolic Analogies and the System of Empirical Laws of Nature	35
1.2.3 Symbolic Analogies and Organisms	38
1.2.4 Symbolic Analogies as Regulative of Possible Experience	43
1.3 Conclusions	44
Part II The Conceptual Development of Bohr's Thought .	47
2 Correspondence	49
2.1 The Germ of Correspondence: The Hydrogen Atom	49
2.2 The Development of Correspondence: Multiperiodic Systems	57
2.3 The Crisis of Correspondence: The Bohr-Kramers-Slater Theory	64
2.4 Conclusions	71
3 Complementarity	75
3.1 Quantum Objects Are Not Directly Presentable in Intuition	76
3.2 Quantum Objects Are Indirectly Presentable in Intuition .	79
3.3 Uncertainty Relations, Complementarity and Symbolism .	81
3.4 Measurement and Definition	88
3.5 Matrix and Wave Mechanics	93
3.6 Conclusions	96

4	The Symbolic Character of Quantum Theory and the EPR Paper	99
4.1	The EPR Argument	99
4.2	The Insufficiency of Operationalism	102
4.3	An Example: A Position Measurement	104
4.4	The Ambiguity of EPR's Realism	108
4.5	Bohr's Criterion of Reality	110
4.6	Objective Validity and Objective Reality of the Concept of a Quantum Object	117
4.7	The Completeness of Quantum Theory	120
4.8	Conclusions	121
5.	Between Kant and Bohr: Harald Høffding	124
5.1	Bohr on Symbolic Knowledge	124
5.2	Symbol in the Broad Sense	128
5.3	Symbol in the Strict Sense	132
5.4	Conclusions	139
Part III A Transcendental Foundation of Quantum Objectivity		141
6	Critique of the Quantum Power of Judgment	143
6.1	Analytic of the Quantum Power of Judgment	146
6.1.1	The Quantum Postulate and the Limits of Mechanical Explanation	146
6.1.2	Logical and Transcendental Systematicity in the Quantum Realm	150
6.1.3	Quantum Objectivity and the Application of the Principle of Systematicity	153
6.1.4	On the Compatibility between Classical and Quantum Causality	156
6.1.5	Contextual and Metacontextual Causality	160
6.1.6	The Quantum Power of Judgment and its Maxims	162
6.1.7	Teleological and Quantum Power of Judgment ...	164
6.1.8	Purposiveness and Probability	168
6.1.9	Appendix: The Analysis of Particle-Tracks	170
6.2	Dialectic of the Quantum Power of Judgment	173
6.2.1	The Antinomy of the Quantum Power of Judgment	173
6.2.2	Idealism and Realism of Quantum Objects	174

6.2.3	On the Possibility of Quantum Metaphysics	177
6.2.4	Appendix: Elements for a Future Quantum Metaphysics	180
6.3	Methodology of the Quantum Power of Judgment	185
6.3.1	Communicability and Intersubjectivity	185
6.3.2	Quantum and Classical Physics	187
6.4	Appendix: Bohr on Purposiveness and Complementarity .	189
6.5	Conclusions	193
7	On Other Transcendental Approaches to Quantum Mechanics .	196
7.1	Cassirer's Concept of Symbol and Quantum Theory	197
7.2	Hermann's Fragmentation of Truth	201
7.3	Mittelstaedt's Non-Objectively Real Objects	205
7.4	Bitbol's Pragmatic-Transcendental Approach	207
7.5	Petitot's Transcendental Aesthetic of Hilbert Space	217
7.6	Strohmeyer, Infinite Judgments and the Principle of Complete Determination	219
7.7	Von Weizsäcker's Transcendental Foundation of Quantum Theory	227
7.8	Conclusions	230
	Epilogue	232
	Bibliography	234
	Author index	248
