Instructional panel for writing the cursive letter 'a'. It features a small box with a cursive 'a' on a three-line grid. To the right, a larger cursive 'a' is shown with a starting dot and arrows indicating the stroke direction: a diagonal line down from the top line to the middle line, followed by a counter-clockwise curve to the top line and back down to the middle line. Below this are four examples of the cursive letter 'a' for tracing.

Instructional panel for writing the cursive letter 'd'. It features a small box with a cursive 'd' on a three-line grid. To the right, a larger cursive 'd' is shown with a starting dot and arrows indicating the stroke direction: a diagonal line down from the top line to the middle line, followed by a counter-clockwise curve to the top line and back down to the middle line, and then a vertical line down from the top line to the bottom line. Below this are four examples of the cursive letter 'd' for tracing.
